

Code of Ethics

- The client experiences the journey in a kind, safe and trusting environment.
- Soul permission, protection and help are asked for before embarking on the journey.
- Upon completion forgiveness, compassion and love are given to the person in each lifetime experience, as well as those who shared the experience with the client.
- Joy and wisdom from that experience are explored and brought forward into the current day; all experiences are closed, leaving behind all pain and discomfort behind the veil.
- The client is returned in fullness to the current time and place, encouraged to document and integrate the wisdom and learning into their current lifetime experience.

As a fully trained facilitator of Past Life Regression journeys, I promise and commit to the above code of ethics and practice.
